

What is covered by FENSA

FENSA covers the replacement of external windows, doors, roof windows and roof lights in your home, against the relevant Building Regulations. Note that the property must be sited on its original footprint, and the use and size of rooms mustn't be altered.

What is not covered by FENSA

FENSA doesn't cover the installation of windows and doors in new conservatories, porches, new builds, new extensions, repairs (where frame not included) and commercial properties. Buildings registered in conservation areas; any installations of this type would need to be registered through Building Control.
